First Capital Bank Welcomes New Director, Dr. William Brown

Charleston, South Carolina – First Capital Bank, known as one of Charleston's few remaining community banks, is proud to introduce a new director, Dr. William Melvin Brown III.

"We're thrilled to welcome such a highly-regarded member of the Charleston community to the board," says John Russ, Chairman. "Those well-acquainted with Dr. Brown will agree that his background and insight, as well as his local roots, will be tremendous assets."

Dr. Brown has received numerous awards for his 20 years of service in the U.S. Navy and now works as an emergency room physician, proving his lifelong dedication to helping others. Dr. Brown currently serves on the Board of Trustees of the Medical University of South Carolina and the Porter-Gaud School.

"I grew up in Charleston, so this opportunity to serve my city means a lot to me," explains Dr. Brown, Director. "I'm looking forward to furthering First Capital Bank's mission – one that strives to strengthen our community and the residents who call it home. I'm honored to be a part of a financial institution that makes decisions for the community it serves, in the community it serves."
